VI. NATURE AND SUMMARY OF THE PROCEEDINGS

The pending action Huawei Technologies Co., Ltd. et al v. Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd. et al (Case No. 3:16-cv-02787-WHO) is a civil lawsuit between Plaintiffs and Counterclaim-Defendants Huawei Technologies Co., Ltd., Huawei Device USA, Inc., Huawei Technologies USA, Inc., and HiSilicon Technologies Co., Ltd. (collectively, “Huawei”) and Defendants and Counterclaim-Plaintiffs Samsung Electronics Co., Ltd., Samsung Electronics America, Inc., and Samsung Research America, Inc. (collectively, “Samsung”) in the United States District Court for the Northern District of California. This action began on May 24, 2016 and was assigned to The Honorable William H. Orrick. Huawei and Samsung both allege patent infringement and the breach of a contractual obligation to grant licenses to their patent portfolios.

In its complaint, Huawei alleged that Samsung breached its obligations to grant Huawei a license on fair, reasonable, and non-discriminatory (“FRAND”) terms and conditions. Huawei also sought a declaratory judgment setting the respective FRAND terms and conditions for both companies’ standard-essential patents (“SEPs”). In addition, Huawei alleged that Samsung infringes eleven of its patents: U.S. Patent Nos. 8,369,278; 8,416,892; 8,483,166; 8,812,848; 8,644,239; 8,885,587; 8,885,583; 8,639,246; 8,412,197; 8,996,003; and 8,724,613. The Samsung products that Huawei accuses of infringement are mobile phones that are compliant with the Long-Term Evolution (“LTE”) standard.

In Samsung's answer and counterclaims to Huawei's complaint, Samsung alleged that Huawei breached its FRAND obligations to grant Samsung a license on FRAND terms and conditions. Samsung further alleged that Huawei violated United States antitrust laws by breaching its FRAND obligations and by improperly pressuring Samsung to take a license. In addition, Samsung alleged that Huawei infringes nine of its patents: U.S. Patent Nos. 8,228,827; 8,315,195; RE44,105; 8,457,588; 8,509,350; 9,113,419; 8,619,726; 8,761,130; and 9,288,825. The Huawei

1 products that Samsung accuses of infringement are mobile phones that allegedly are compliant with 2 the LTE standard.

3 Both Huawei and Samsung deny that they have breached their obligations to grant a license
4 on FRAND terms and conditions. Huawei denies that it has violated United States antitrust laws.
5 Both Huawei and Samsung deny that they infringe the patents asserted against them and contend that 6 the patents asserted against them are invalid. Under United States law, a patent can be proved
7 invalid in a civil lawsuit if prior art exists that anticipates the patented claims or renders the patented
8 claims obvious. Huawei has alleged that certain asserted Samsung patents are invalid due to prior 9 art originally assigned to, and still owned by, Nokia. The named inventors on the prior art were 10 employees of Nokia at the time of the invention, and still remain employees of Nokia today.

11 In the pending action, a claim construction hearing was held on August 18, 2017. Fact 12 discovery is expected to close in December 2017. Trial is currently scheduled to begin on 13 September 17, 2018.

14 VII. EVIDENCE TO BE OBTAINED

15 Huawei seeks to obtain documents from Nokia. It is also respectfully requested that the 16 attorneys for Huawei be permitted to question the witnesses listed in Part XI below regarding the 17 subject matter described in Part XII, and that answers to those questions be recorded by a court
18 reporter. The purpose of preparing deposition transcripts of the witnesses listed in Part XI is to 19 enable use of the deposition testimony of the witnesses at trial in the pending action, if the witness is 20 unavailable to attend trial and if the other requirements of U.S. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 32
21 are met. To ease the burden on witnesses, it is respectfully requested that Nokia and/or the 22 individuals listed in Part XI assist in selecting the two most knowledgeable witnesses for initial 23 examination, and that further examinations be scheduled thereafter, if necessary, as requested by 24 representatives for the parties.

25 It is additionally requested that the Competent Authority of Finland compel Nokia
26 Corporation and Nokia Technologies OY to make available at least one of the individuals listed in 27
28

1 Part XI to testify on behalf of Nokia Corporation and Nokia Technologies OY regarding the 2 deposition topics set forth in Exhibit B.

3 VIII. PURPOSE OF THE EVIDENCE

4 Samsung alleges that Huawei infringes nine of its patents, one of which is U.S. Patent
5 No. 8,228,827. On January 20, 2017, Huawei disclosed invalidating prior art to Samsung's U.S.
6 Patent No. 8,228,827. One such prior art reference is U.S. Patent No. 8,897,276, titled "Collision
7 Detection for Random Access Procedure," and issued on November 25, 2014 ("the '276 Patent").
8 The '276 Patent was originally assigned to Nokia Corporation and is now assigned to Nokia
9 Technologies OY. The named inventors of the '276 Patent are Karri Ranta-Aho, Harri Holma,
10 Jeroen Wigard, Antti Torskala, and Juho Pirskanen. The '276 Patent has a priority date of January
11 25, 2007. At the time that Huawei disclosed the '276 Patent to Samsung, Samsung asserted that the 12 conception date of U.S. Patent No. 8,228,827 was January 26, 2007.

13 On March 13, 2017, Samsung filed a motion that sought to change the alleged conception
14 date of U.S. Patent No. 8,228,827 from January 26, 2007 to January 22, 2007. On April 27, 2017,
15 Samsung's motion was granted. As a result, the '276 Patent potentially lost its status as prior art
16 under 35 United States Code § 102(e).

17 The discovery that Huawei now requests from Nokia seeks to determine if the '276 Patent
18 qualifies as a prior art reference under a different section of the United States Patent laws, 35 United 19 States Code § 102(g). The requested discovery seeks to determine whether the inventions disclosed
20 in Nokia's '276 Patent were invented prior to January 22, 2007, and otherwise qualify as prior art to 21 Samsung's U.S. Patent No. 8,228,827 pursuant to the requirements of 35 United States Code 22 § 102(g).
